CALL FOR SHOW AND TELL

DEADLINE EXTENDED APRIL 30, 2022

INTERSPEECH 2022 will feature sessions for Show and Tell demonstration, along with regular and special sessions. Participants will take the opportunity to demonstrate their most recent progress of developments, and interact with the conference attendees in an informal way, such as a demo, mock-up or any adapted format of their own choice. The contributions must highlight the innovative side of the concept and may relate to a regular paper. Demonstrations should be based on innovations and fundamental research in the areas of speech communication, speech production, perception, acquisition, or speech and language technologies.

Submission and Preparation Guidelines

- Each Show and Tell proposal submission must contain both a paper of up to 2 pages detailing the demonstration and a 5-minute video providing a preview of what is going to be shown. The paper (including references) has to follow the format defined in the paper preparation guidelines as instructed in the author's kit on the conference webpage. Please note that the focus of the paper shall be on describing what the visitors will see and experience. Submissions will be evaluated by the organizing committee for relevance, originality, clarity, and significance of the proposed demonstration. At least one author of each accepted submission must register for and attend the conference, and demonstrate the system during the Show and Tell sessions. Each accepted Show and Tell paper will be allocated two pages in the conference proceedings. Furthermore, a final video, which is to be submitted by the final paper deadline, will be made available publicly.

Presentation Arrangements

Show and Tell demonstrations will be presented in their dedicated time slot in the conference program. Each presentation space includes:

- One poster board
- One table
- A power outlet
